

Eucharistic Homily

Eleventh Lord's Day of Pentecost

August 16, 2020

One of the best ways to inoculate ourselves and our children against the allure of unjust gain and the enticement of wicked men is to receive and relish the blessings of God in worship, especially at this Table. In other words, fill up on the good stuff, so that the bad stuff loses its appeal.

As we commune in the body and blood of the glorified Christ, we come to know the surpassing riches of God's grace. As we feast at the Table of our heavenly Father, our identity as God's children is impressed upon us and reinforced. And the promise of this Lord's Supper is that Christ has died, Christ is risen, and Christ will come again to perfect his new creation in us and in all that He has made. Whatever you do, don't miss that for the fleeting pleasures of this world.

If you've been baptized into Christ and are seeking to live faithfully and obediently for Him, you are invited to partake of this feast that our gracious God has provided for us. These are the gifts of God for the people of God.
