

Eucharistic Homily

Fourth Lord's Day in Lent

March 27, 2022

The disciples didn't recognize Jesus for who He was, because they forgot about the loaves. The disciples feared that Jesus might not come through for them, because they forgot about the loaves. The disciples nearly missed their opportunity to witness the glory of God in the midst of the storm, because they forgot about the loaves.

So don't forget about the loaves. More to the point, don't forget about this loaf. Don't forget about the eternal life and forgiveness that Jesus has secured for you. Don't forget about the promise of resurrection glory, which guarantees us that all our labors in the Lord are not in vain.

When you're tempted to weariness and despair, don't forget about the body of Christ broken for us and given to us in this Holy Communion.

When you're tempted to fear, don't forget this victory banquet that points us ahead to the great feast in the fullness of Christ's kingdom.

If you've been baptized and are seeking to live in obedience to Christ, you are invited to partake of this feast that our gracious Father has prepared for us.
